“When Tag Greason voted for the most extreme attacks on women’s health care, I knew I had to do something.”

— Liz Miller

Liz Miller is running for delegate, to stop the attacks on women's health care.

A RECORD OF GIVING BACK

Liz Miller is known around Loudoun County for getting involved and giving back. Liz served on the Loudoun Community Services Board, helping Virginians with mental health issues, developmental disabilities, and problems with substance abuse. Liz has worked to help women who have been victims of domestic violence and has been an active volunteer in Loudoun County Public schools, where her son Fordon is in the 6th grade.

TIME TO TAKE A STAND

Like a lot of us, Liz Miller was disgusted by the extreme attacks on women's health care coming from Richmond. When Liz found out that our Delegate, Tag Greason, voted for some of the most extreme laws, Liz knew she had to do something.

Liz, her husband Stevens, and son Fordon.

Liz will get Richmond focused on things that actually matter:

- ▶ Stopping the attacks on women's health care — It's time we left health care decisions to women and their doctors and kept the government out of it.
- ▶ Ensuring all our kids get a world class education — As a mother with a son in public schools, Liz understands that nothing is more important than protecting Loudoun County's schools.
- ▶ Expanding Metro, ending gridlock — Liz knows the only way to improve traffic in our area is to improve public transportation options and make sure road improvements are done on time and on budget.

LIZ MILLER — Fighting Back for all of us.
