

Who Does This Man Work For?

Not you.

Over the last two elections, Rep. James McCrery received campaign donations of nearly $200,000 from the securities and commercial banking industries. Now he's chairman of the Social Security Subcommittee in Congress, and he's pushing hard to privatize the program. Guess who would benefit the most if that happens?

That's right: Wall Street, not Main Street—to the tune of $279 billion.

Meanwhile, thousands of Shreveport residents, and millions of Americans, would find their Social Security benefits slashed.

Call Rep. McCrery's office and remind him that because he's your congressman he really works for you. If you're told that he doesn't have time to talk with you, it's probably because he's busy with the lobbyists.
