Trump wants to deport American Indians to India

Washington (AP) - As part of his plan to improve national security and combat illegal immigration, US President Donald Trump is set to send 10 million American Indians back to where they came from - India. He is said to have instructed his executive order to do this by the end of this week.

In an interview with Fox News, President Trump described Indians living in the USA as parasites with a history of attacking, evading and shielding. He called them, "I've seen it in all kinds of TV documentaries. They attack good Americans using hatchets on buses and trains. You can't trust these Indians."

President Trump consulted with the appropriate members of the government and found that most Indians do not possess the requisite immigration documents. "That means they are here illegally, I had to act."

Further criticism is to be found on the President's Twitter account:
